

Wives of Slain Tobacco Heir Fight for $25,000,000

Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith

Libby Holman Reynolds

More than a score of lawyers representing Libby Holman Reynolds, Broadway torch singer, and Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith, the two wives of Zachary Smith Reynolds, the mysteriously slain tobacco heir, have been waging a fight to the finish over the disposition of the $25,000,000 estate of young Reynolds at a hearing at Winston-Salem, N. C., in a case which has become the most involved litigation in North Carolina's history. The fight centers on the settlement on Anne Cannon Reynolds II, age four, Smith's first child and granddaughter of the millionaire towel manufacturer, and on the infant son, Christopher, that Libby Holman, his second wife, bore him.

Cady's Hopes for High Office Ended With Announcement of Positions

Hopes of Mayor W. B. Cady for a high position in the state conservation department were blasted today when Governor Martin L. Several other appointments were made to high offices including: T. D. Pfefferle, of Dayton, former president of the Ohio Izaak Walton Wooddell was announced as the new commissioner after Davey met with 26 officials of various sportsmen's organizations of the state Wednesday evening. The Ravenna man, a decided darkhorse, was selected from a list of 36 candidates. Wooddell has been principal of a grade school at Ravenna and has been president of the Portage-co fish and game protective association for seven years.

Mr. Cady had the support of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee for a conservation department job. There is still a possibility that he will be offered a position in the department.

The commissioner will receive a $5,000-per-year salary.

Estate Case Nearing End

Superior Court Judge Expected to Decide Contest Within Few Days

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., March 14.—As the fourth day of the complicated Zachary Smith Reynolds estate settlement hearing began in superior court here today, arguments remained to be heard in the $28,000,000 battle. The court, presided over by Judge Clayton Moore, was expected to decide today, or tomorrow at the latest, whether the settlement proposed by the brother and sisters of the mysteriously slain youth would be acceptable.

The fight centers between the two wives of Zachary, with Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith, his first wife, laying claim to the entire estate in behalf of her infant daughter, and Libby Holman, Broadway blues singer, his second wife, willing to abide by terms of the family plan in the interest of her son.

A. L. Brooks, attorney for Mrs. Annie L. Cannon, grandmother and co-guardian of little Anne Cannon Reynolds II, was scheduled to resume the arguments today in which Mrs. Cannon attacks the settlement that would give 37½ per cent of the fortune to the Reynolds family to be used in establishing an educational foundation in Zachary's memory.

3 JUDGES SEND YOUTH TO PRISON

WILMINGTON, March 14.—Eighteen-year-old Thomas Jones, who allegedly confessed slaying his father "because I was afraid of him," today faced an indeterminate term in Mansfield Reformatory.

The youth was convicted and sentenced yesterday for manslaughter in connection with the death of his father, William Jones, 40, a tenant farmer, last month.

Three judges heard the youth's case. They deliberated "only a few minutes" before determining the degree of murder and fixing the penalty. During the trial, witnesses testified the boy's father had beaten and abused him.

Sale of Beer to Minors Hit

Legal Age Set at 21 Years By House With Senate Yet to Take Action On Measure; County Option Bill Back In Committee

COLUMBUS, March 14.—Legislation making it unlawful to sell or give 3.2 beer to a minor, adopted after much wrangling in the lower house, today depended upon action by the Ohio senate.

Both wets and dries claimed some advantages from the Hall-Ashbolt bill as finally approved by the House. Unable to reduce the age of a person lawfully able to buy beer from 21 to 18 years, the wets nevertheless succeeded in shaving down the penalty for violation to a fine of $25 to $300 and not more than six months in jail.

The dries on the other hand found consolation in the house going on record against permitting minors to frequent beer parlors. Under the Hall-Ashbolt bill, they may obtain beer only from a physician or their legal guardian.

Option Bill Hit

A setback was experienced by the Anti-Saloon League's county-wide local option bill sponsored by Dep. Frank Grubbs (D) Good Hope. The house sent it back to the temperance committee with a reprimand because it had been reported out without a recommendation for passage.

Wet leaders predicted the temperance committee would be unable to muster enough favorable votes to report the bill out with such recommendation.

In cities of over 55,000 population the quota of restaurant liquor permits is increased under the Zablotny bill approved by the House, 68 to 38. One is allowed for each 1,500 persons instead of 2,000 as at present. The bill awaits senate concurrence.

PAY INCREASE IS GRANTED TO CITY TEACHERS

Checks Received This Week Find Salaries Boosted $4 to $10

Circleville school teachers were pleased this week when their pay checks, included increases in salary amounting to from $4 to $10 per teacher per month. The increase is simply restoration of a salary cut in effect since 1932. All teachers were affected.

Robert G. Colville, clerk of the school board, disclosed the increase in pay. He said the increase would add about $500 a month to the school expenses.

The total payroll each month is about $5,000, Mr. Colville said.

Circleville school teachers, as a result of a strict economy program enforced by the board of education, are in better shape financially than those of many cities of similar size.

Ohio Expected to Go Over Banks at Cincinnati Late This Week

NEAR FLOOD STAGE

Families Flee Homes in Mississippi Valley

CINCINNATI, March 14.—Officials here and in other towns and villages along the Ohio river today were quickly organizing for emergency action as the rain-swollen river continued to edge upward to flood stage.

The river, if it continues rising at the present rate, is expected to overflow its banks Saturday. The crest probably will exceed 53 feet, W. C. Deveraux, United States meteorologist here, said today. Flood stage is 52 feet.

While the river was not expected to reach serious flood proportions,

FIRST LIBERTY LOAN CALLED

Government to Retire Nearly Two Billions June 15, Says Morgenthau

WASHINGTON, March 14.—A call for retirement of $1,933,000,000 in First Liberty bonds for June 15 was issued today by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. About $550,000,000 of these securities bear four and one quarter per cent interest, a small portion four per cent, and the remainder three and one half per cent interest.

Morgenthau said that the exchanges of four and quarter per cent bonds called in the amount of $1,933,000,000 for April 15 was "going well." The last report showed exchanges of over $500,000,000 and since that time several hundred million were believed to have come in, although Morgenthau did not have very definite figures.

Bonds bearing two and seven-eighths per cent interest were offered in exchange for the fourth Liberty. On April 15 it was expected that the remaining outstanding Fourth Liberties now amounting to around $1,325,000,000 would be called for October 15.

CHURCH, COLLEGE LEADERS FIGHT PAROCHIAL AID BILL

DIVISION OF CHURCH AND STATE CITED

Wittenberg, Otterbein Presidents Add Voice to Objection to Measure

COLUMBUS, March 14—Basing their objection on the premise that church and state must forever remain separated, Protestant clergymen of Ohio today appealed to the Ohio legislature to defeat the Davis bill granting $3,000,000 state aid to parochial schools.

"Passage of this measure," Rev. Harold N. Geistweil, Cincinnati, president of the Ohio Pastors association, told the senate finance committee, "would set on fire religious prejudice and split asunder harmony developed in separation of church and state."

"Our public schools are adequate for every child of every citizen and if they are not, it is the duty of the state to make them so. If we begin a subsidy of private institutions, what will prevent an uprising of a multitude of them which will demand state aid and spell the doom of the public schools, the very foundation of our government."

Colleges Urge Defeat

Presidents of two sectarian colleges, Wittenberg and Otterbein, which would benefit under a clause of the Davis bill giving $2,000,000 to such institutions not now receiving state aid, argued strongly for defeat of the measure.

"We are here because without our knowledge and against our will we have been dragged into something which we do not approve," Dr. R. E. Tulloss, Wittenberg president, told the committee.

"No matter how great our financial problems, we oppose this unexpected offered gift. Is relief from our financial burdens so much to be desired as to be bought with a sacrifice of a principle on which our national government is founded?"

"As for me, give me independence or give me dissolution."

Lutherans, whose own parochial schools would share in the $3,000,000 state aid along with those of the Catholics, sent battery of speakers to oppose the Davis bill.

"Parochial schools are an integral, an argonic part of whatever church maintains them," said Rev. Edward W. Schram, Cleveland. "It is just as logical for the legislature to appropriate state funds for the foreign missions of some church."

"The Lutheran church hopes unto God to keep its sense of logic even in a depression."

While proponents state that the requested state aid would be only temporary to tide them over the economic crisis, this argument was challenged by Rev. F. W. Loose, Lorain Lutheran pastor, and by Dr. Frank G. Coffin, Cleveland Congregationalist minister.

Have Schools Too

"We have parochial schools as the Catholics do," said Rev. Loose. "And the only reason for their existence is that we want our children to learn the Lutheran religion and no other, and the same is true of the Catholic schools."

"Why should we permit ourselves to be taxed for the support of any religion we do not approve?"

Former State Sen. W. A. Clark, representing the Junior Order of American Mechanics, said the Davis bill violates "the fundamental principle of separation of church and state."

Previously the committee had heard from a number of Catholic priests and laity who contended that if the 175,000 pupils in their schools were turned over to public schools it would cost the state $10,000,000 instead of the $3,000,000 they are asking.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel dazed and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25-cent drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

STREAM BILL HEARING SET FOR TUESDAY

Bearce, Teeters, Others Oppose Penalties for Pollution of Streams

COLUMBUS, March 14—Persons favoring the Reiners bill proposing stiff penalties for pollution of streams will be given an opportunity to be heard before the House Waterways committee, Tuesday, March 19 at 10 a. m. Representative E. R. Hummel of Fairfield, chairman of the committee announced today.

Due to a misunderstanding on the date of the original hearing the only persons appearing at Tuesday night's session of the committee disapproved of the bill. Representative Hummel during the committee hearing said: "I know there are some people in Fairfield who are for the bill and I am anxious that they be given an opportunity to be heard."

Opponents of the bill cited that its passage would work undue hardship on Ohio industry, which, they said, was doing "its share" to help in the elimination of the "waste problem" wherever possible.

E. F. Bearce, Chillicothe, vice president of the Chillicothe Paper Company and former director of the Scioto Sandusky Conservancy district suggested that the pollution problem be handled gradually through educational methods and "persuasion rather than dictation" be used. Howard Teeters, general manager of the Mead Paper Corporation, Chillicothe, said passage of the bill would "handicap" Ohio industry.

Carl S. Dixon, assistant secretary of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, representing Alexander Thomson, Jr. Hamilton, state chamber president and president of the Champion Coated Paper Company read Mr. Thomson's paper which said in part: "only about 20 per cent of the sewage passing through the sewers in cities is industrial waste, the remaining 80 per cent being natural sewage of the city."

Thomson's paper also said "that industrial development of a community should be of more importance" . . . "than the few fish that have lived in the stream if industry had not looted there and its waste allowed to run into the stream."

J. H. Waring, Columbus, chief engineer of the State Health department, said that the bill would make "police" out of the conservation division and would interfere with the health department functions of the state. Waring added that there are now present statutes which enable property owners damaged by pollution to enter a damage suit and also obtain a health department order against the offender.

Waring reported that "educational measures" and continued "waste disposal refinements" made possible by PWA grants and loans would solve the pollution problem best.

Thirty-four per cent of the students enrolled in the college of agriculture and the school of home economics of the Ohio State University are former 4-H club members. For the central states the percentage is reported as 31.

"Ideal Girl's" Good Points

Delegates to convention of nation's beauty shop owners in New York picked out good points of five girls and decided if one miss had them all, she'd be ideal girl of 1935. She'd have, for instance, back and hips like Phyllis Marion (left) and (below) legs like Sally Fox and hands like Caryl Bennett.

The BUSINESS of HOME-MAKING

School of Home Economics OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

Every household account book should include a summary sheet where monthly totals of all items can be recorded. This summary sheet offers opportunity for comparison between months and gives the total for the year.

At intervals, the expenditures should be analyzed from these summaries. Some of the questions which may be answered in this way are:

Are we carrying enough insurance? Is a garden a means of lowering food costs? Do income and rental situations warrant home ownership? Were we extravagant in our cleaning? Has any member an unreasonable share in the clothing costs?

Does the cost of repairs show that it is a mistake to try to use the car another year? Are magazines over-emphasized and books under-stressed? Should we have regular physical and dental examinations?

Further analysis of the records will help in the reduction of costs. A gas or electric bill which has doubled during a certain month over the corresponding month in last year needs investigating. A high gas bill may be reduced by seeing that the oven is used to capacity. Using the electric hand iron for one long period rather than several short periods lowers costs of electricity.

Accounts may reveal carelessness in taking advantage of discounts. For instance, coal is sometimes cheaper if purchased in the spring and cash payments often mean an additional reduction.

The durability of articles may be checked from the accounts. How long does one type of socks or hose wear as compared with another? Did the pair of shoes for the little girl purchased at five dollars wear enough longer than those at three dollars to warrant the extra cost? The advantages of quantity buying and seasonal buying also are evident from the accounts. The homemaker who discovers the amount of soap she uses in a year may buy it by the carton, thus effecting a saving.

Thus the family account book is all-revealing, often showing the way to economies which will make possible luxuries previously though impossible.

MISS BRUNNER TO ENTERTAIN CLUB

BASEBALL'S "BABE"

AFTER some 20 years in the big leagues, "Babe" Ruth is still at it and "going strong." Sport prophets for the past several years have told of his finish with the close of each season. He is too old, they said, and his legs are too weak to sustain added weight.

Perchance his forty-odd years are just a little too much for any man to carry onto the diamond. Maybe he is past his prime when it comes to actual playing. But there is one phase of baseball that "Babe" Ruth's grip still holds firm—the faculty for making money.

There are some "dyed-in-the-wool" Ruth fans who would go to the park if the "Great Bambino" were to do nothing more than sit in the right field bleachers. Perhaps they will continue to do so until Ruth himself goes to the park no more.

Boston's signing of the three-year contract with Ruth as player assistant manager and vice president of the club will reap a two-fold benefit. Ruth was reputed to have been done when he lost the 1934 season with the Yankees. The opportunity comes as a job for him, and a good paying one at that. The Boston club was "on the rocks" financially and it probably will be a mantle of good fortune affording them at last the opportunity to net some profits for the organization.

Maybe Ruth is done. Maybe he should have quit five or six years ago. But if he had he would have lost over a quarter of a million dollars — to say nothing of the slump in business that the Yanks would have felt.

"Babe" Ruth, the "Great Bambino," the "Sultan of Swat," now has another title to prove, "Master of the Gate." The 1935 season will offer him a chance to prove his worth to a club that has everything to gain.

HOW STUDENTS FEEL

A CROSS-SECTION of opinion on the issues of war and peace has been obtained from American college and university campuses by the Literary Digest — whose editors apparently are not happy unless they are polling somebody about something — and the results are interesting.

Of the 112,607 students polled, 90 percent favored government control of munitions manufacture; 50.5 percent opposed American entrance in the League of Nations; two-thirds expressed belief that America can stay out of the next great war; and 83 percent said they would willingly defend the country in case of invasion.

It would be interesting to know how closely this reflects the sentiment of the country as a whole. Offhand, one might suggest that it is not very far from it.

It's a fair bet that the average citizen distrusts the munition makers and the league, feels that his country ought to keep out of the next war, and is ready to do his bit if anyone else starts anything.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Floyd Happeney, 24, was instantly killed when a 10-foot ditch, being dug for the N. Pickaway-st. sanitary sewer, caved in. Charles Hutchinson, 40, miraculously escaped injury, although he was almost completely buried in the ditch.

More than 100 sportsmen and their friends attended the annual meeting and banquet of the Pickaway Farmers' and Sportsmen's league at the Elks club. Senator J. F. Atwood was the principal speaker. William Reed was president of the organization.

Circleville Athletic Club basketball team was eliminated from the Ohio State tournament, losing to Springfield 40-25. The C. A. C. lineup included Steele, Vierbome, Parks, Merriman, Gordon and Robinson.

15 YEARS AGO

Frank Rogers and Fred Fitzpatrick took the examination before the Circleville municipal civil service commission for patrolman. There were no applicants for the fire department.

Layton Devault, 17-year-old Adelphi boy, confessed to Ross county officials to killing his father. The killing took place following a series of quarrels, the young man striking his father several times with a hatchet.

Seven Circleville high school basketball players, all seniors, made their final appearance in the hardwood court in a game against Greenfield. They were: Burgett, Renick, Short and Williams as regulars, and Polin, Williams and Slinger as relief men.

25 YEARS AGO

Chester, five-year-old son of David Stout, S. Court-st., found a revolver under a pillow in his father's bed room and pulled the trigger. The bullet plowed a furrow across the palm of his left hand.

The McArthur block on W. Main-st., one of Circleville's landmarks, was purchased by the Norfolk & Western Railroad company and razed to make room for double tracks.

The building was more than 60 years old and was among the first three-story structures in Circleville.

F. E. Barnhill moved his renovating establishment to the Schleyer building, E. Main-st., vacated by Fitzpatrick's print shop.

A Thought for Today

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

READ THIS FIRST:
Consuelo, a beautiful gypsy girl who longs to dance with all the world at her feet, is loved by the Dummy, a deaf mute, and Marcu. She despises her mother, Anica, but is fond of her father, Girtza. Marcu tempts Consuelo with a huge diamond and she agrees to marry him. Just as Girtza notices Consuelo's ring, which she tells him she has stolen, the sheriff appears. He proceeds to haul the gypsies into court but Consuelo is no longer wearing the ring.
(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 8

"WELL, GEORGE, you might have known that she wouldn't wear the ring into court. Why didn't you take it away from her when you saw it?" the judge asked. The sheriff's face turned redder. "I couldn't," he stammered the painful admission. "Ask Bert and Fred, they was with me. They seen her bite at me." He cleared his throat. "But she's got it on her some place. She ain't had a chance to give it away. I'd have seen her. Gosh, judge, it was a diamond as big as my thumb nail and a brand new shiny one. She's got it on her." "All right, then, search the girl." The sheriff stepped back. "Who, me?" He shook his head vigorously. "Not me, judge, not me!"

The judge turned to the clerk. "Get my wife and Mrs. Mortimer and tell them to come here immediately." He turned to the girl. "What's your name?"

"Consuelo."

"You danced yesterday, didn't you?"

"This man says you have a ring, a large diamond ring. In a few minutes there will be two ladies here to search you and if you want to save yourself some embarrassment, you'd better throw away the evidence if that evidence happens to be a valuable ring, so you might as well give it to me."

Consuelo stared at him, her look sultry. "Well, if you won't, we have ways and means to make you, you know. Did you steal the ring from this town? Come now, answer my questions. I want you, you had better give me the ring. If you will, I promise not to be too hard with you."

There was no answer from the girl, just a steady, defiant look on her face.

At this point the crowd made way for the clerk and two women who followed close behind him.

"Good morning, ladies. George, here, says this gypsy girl has a large diamond ring. I'd thank you if you'll take her into the jury chamber and set it."

Mrs. Mortimer, a determined country woman, marched through the ranks and up to the jury door. But the judge's wife was not so determined; in fact, she was not determined at all. She made as if to protest but the judge motioned her on, so, gathering her skirts up in her dainty fingers, she made a wide circle around the gypsies and gained the jury door.

"Go with them, young lady," the judge ordered.

Feet apart, hands on hips, Consuelo did not move.

Uneasiness appeared on the judge's face. Then to his astonishment the gypsy girl laughed. With one quick movement she stepped up and made a deep bow before him.

"Dog of a white man's judge, I will do as you say, but you will wish that you had let the Gypsy Consuelo alone before I am through. I spit on your authority and curse you for a white son of a dog!" She spoke in Rumanian.

"Oh, what's that you say?" The judge leaned forward.

"All right, then search the girl."

"Anything you wish, gorgio," she said in English. She stood erect, eyes sparkling. Again her laugh rang through the room and turning she walked toward the open door where the two women awaited her. She paused a minute and glanced back at Girtza.

"You need not worry over this bad one," Rumanian words to him. "I will show these pigs how sharp are a gypsy girl's finger nails and how strong her arms!"

As she disappeared through the door, the sheriff turned the key in the lock. He'd kept the gypsy in there until the women got the ring, and if they were a bit rough with her it would serve the scamp right. He'd not unlock the door for any hollering. Nor did he—until—

A quarter of an hour or so later when Marcu returned with the horses he was met with a babble of excited voices. His eyes took in the propped axle. The maze of voices settled to coherency.

Girtza, Consuelo, the sheriff. A diamond ring. The gorgio girl. The sheriff and his men with guns. Marching off to town. Prisoners. What was to be done? The gorgio dogs had gone too far this time. They'd go in and cut the throats of all of them! Dirty curs! Marcu must do something. Wasn't he Consuelo's sweetheart, the man Girtza had promised her to?

Marcu smiled at the sullen growled words.

"It's all right," he told them. "I will go in and fix it. Get everything packed and on the wagons and the horses hitched and we move as soon as we get back with the wheel."

"But how are you going to do it?" was the amazed demand.

"Never you mind, my comrades. I will do it. Am I not some day going to be your leader? Can the Gypsy Marcu fail?"

"What do you know about that ring?" Anica asked him.

"What I know about that ring is my business." He laughed in her face and hastened down the trail.

So Consuelo said she had stolen it. Ah, but she was the smart one. A good wife she'd make him. Wife. Yes. No longer could she say no. His heart beat faster. He increased his pace.

He had no sooner entered the

Heard & Seen

BY KAY JAY

SPRING BEGINS

It's peculiar what a learned person is able to see when looking through one of those powerful telescopes. There's Dr. Bobrovnik-off, noted astronomer down at Ohio Wesleyan university, who is able to gaze off into space and tell us what is going to happen, and when. You and I might look through the bloom'n' thing for a week and not see anything but about a million stars, but those professional star-gazers are able to give us the low down. For instance, the "Prof" is able to tell us the exact time spring begins. He says:

"This year, official spring begins on March 21, 18 minutes after 8 o'clock a. m. (E. S. T.)."

And we can't argue with him about it because we can't talk his language.

The astronomer states it is very simple to predict the exact beginning of the spring season. "There are two imaginary lines, celestial equator and ecliptic, which govern the astronomical change of season. When the sun, which always travels along the ecliptic line, reaches the first intersection, the vernal equinox (Spring) occurs; when it gets to the second intersection, the autumnal equinox (Autumn) is noted."

And at 8:18 a. m., March 21, you may say without fear of official contradiction that "spring has come."

Very simple, isn't it—when you now how it's done!

WRITES FROM TEXAS

Ben F. Ludwig, well known to many residents of Circleville and Pickaway-co., writes an interesting letter from Marfa, Texas, where he is engaged in road building. His many friends in this section will be glad to know something about the country of which Ben is now a resident, and herewith is reproduced extracts from his letter:

"I left Dallas, Texas, December 24 and arrived in Marfa on Christmas day, after 15 hours of day-time driving, just about 1800 miles southwest of Circleville on Route 67. I will be here until April 1st building eight miles of road east. It may be interesting to hear about this part of Texas. Marfa is the county seat of Presidio-co., 63 miles north of the Rio Grande, in the Davis mountains, 4694 feet above sea level and surrounded by mountains in all directions. The country 10 to 15 miles around is ranch land and level. They raise cattle and sheep. The mountains are very interesting and I have taken several pictures.

"There is lots of game here. Deer, antelope, wild turkey, quail and rabbits may be killed in season. There are lions, bears, bobcats, coyotes and snakes. Vegetables are raised on irrigated land in the Rio Grande valley, 63 miles south.

"The population of Marfa is 3000 Mexicans and 1000 Americans. About half the Mexicans have their naturalization papers and are American citizens.

"We have wide, paved streets and many adobe houses, good water from wells 1400 feet deep. The climate is very nice. We are all well. I will be located in Dallas soon. Regards to all."

BRIGHT BOY

"Now, who can describe a caterpillar?" asked the teacher, during the natural history class.

"I can, teacher," shouted one eager little boy.

"Well, Tommy, what is it?"

"Please, teacher, an upholstered worm."

MR. WAGE EARNER HAS A NIGHTMARE

Poems That Live

When a storm comes up at night and the wind is crying,
When the trees are moaning like masts on laboring ships,
I wake in fear and put out my hand to find you
With your name on my lips.

No pain that the heart can hold is like to this one—
To call, forgetting, into aching space,
To reach out confident hands and find beside you
Only an empty place.

This should atone for the hours when I forget you,
Take then my offering, clean and sharp and sweet,
An agony brighter than years of dull remembrance.

I lay it at your feet.

SOUND BIDS AND PLAYS
AFTER YOU pick up your 13 cards, remember that the remaining 32 cards may be dealt into 8,12,4,5,444 different hands. Your best procedure is that which will stand the greatest chances for success, considering all those 8 billions of holdings possible in the 3 remaining hands. You must not wholly consider your own hand. You must consider the joint 26 cards of your side. Only deep students of card probabilities are competent to formulate rules of procedure. Unfortunately this is not always the case.

As the bidding and play of the hands shown today was far from sound, it is not given. Instead is given proper bidding and play, as the hands are too interesting to misuse.

After the armistice was signed, he joined a troupe that was putting on repertoire at the army camps, where a New York Manager saw his work and as soon as William returned home he booked him for a Broadway show. In "Expressing Willie" and "Blue Peter" he won instant recognition. Other successes were "Twelve Miles Out," "Let Us Be Gay" and "Those We Love." CHARACTERS IN "BATTLE OF THE CENTURY"

LIFE STORY TOLD IN A SKETCH STRIP

Charles E. Coughlin was born at Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 25, 1891, of American Irish parents. After graduating from the University of Toronto he decided to enter the church, finishing his novitiate with a teaching position at St. Basil's college, Waco, Tex.

In 1916 Father Coughlin returned to Ontario to teach at Assumption college and began to preach at a small church on U. S. side. Now formally attached to the Detroit diocese, he was instructed to start a new parish at Royal Oak, Mich., in 1926.

Although 17 persons attended Father Coughlin's first service, thousands now clamor for admission to the Church of the Little Flower. He has been broadcasting his services almost regularly since 1926 and now his congregation numbers in the millions.

The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin

In preparation for his radio talks the priest often disappears to obtain seclusion. He does much research to obtain the material that forms the background of his crusades, and usually sits up all night Saturday writing his sermon broadcast.

Gifted with a dry sense of humor and unusual oratorical ability, Father Coughlin is completely at ease before the microphone. Although widely criticized by some dignitaries of his own church for his radio tirades, Father Coughlin has a huge following.

He has been a persistent critic of American monetary policy. But when attacked recently by General Johnson as a foe of President Roosevelt's policies, the radio priest declared for Roosevelt. He brings to the radio the personality attacks of debates of the past.

MORRO CASTLE MAY BE 'PUT ON BLOCK'

ASBURY PARK, N. J., March 14—The once palatial Ward liner, Morro Castle, a prisoner in the sands off here since the morning of September 8 last when it became a blazing inferno in which more than 130 lives were lost, has been re-floated.

She was pulled loose shortly before 2 a. m. today by two sturdy tugs which had been trying to salvage her for more than four months.

All day yesterday preparations were made to pull the huge liner free from its last bit of sand.

The two tugs towed the liner to New York, where she will be anchored in Gravesend bay. She will be examined by navy and marine officials and in all likelihood will be offered for sale.

'Mechanical Brain', Best Yet, Developed By Senior at Miami

OXFORD, March 14—A "mechanical brain" built by a Miami University senior today was hailed by Professor E. F. Patten, head of the psychology department, here, as "the most complete yet made."

Professor Patten explained that while the machine does not illustrate mechanically the working of the brain it does duplicate the result the brain achieves.

Douglas G. Ellston, a senior at Miami U. constructed the unique device. He declared it illustrated conditioning through trial and error. Through three electro-magnets and an iron pendulum, the machine can make three choices when it is instructed to perform.

TIGERS HOPING TO MAKE GOOD CAGE SHOWING

Styers Back In School; Job of Tigers Is To Stop Tapia and Freeman

Hopeful of upsetting the dope bucket, the Circleville high cagers were preparing to leave this afternoon for the state fairgrounds coliseum where they will do battle with the veteran cagers of Columbus South high school in the central district tournament.

Tiger hopes were aided a little today when Chuck Styers, regular tipoff man, returned to school. He is still suffering from a heavy cold and will probably divide the center duties with John Griffith. Both athletes are juniors.

Just what defense Coach Herberholz will attempt on the big floor is uncertain. On previous showings of South high this year the Tigers have two men to stop if they want to have a chance for victory. They are Tapia, forward, and Freeman, dusky guard. Both are fast and good scorers. The remainder of the South team is pretty good but there is nothing in the books that says they cannot be defeated.

Herberholz's starting lineup will be Captain Tom Kirwin and Fred Grant, forwards; Chuck Styers, center, John Jenkins and George Speakman, guards, with John Griffith, Don Henry and Norman Coleman hanging around the edges.

The evening's program promises to be interesting with four games scheduled.

The "Stooge" club, student organization which has been doing a world of good, has leased a bus to make the trip to the coliseum.

RED TREGO HOPE OF CAPITAL TEAM

COLUMBUS, Mar. 14 — With eight letters back in briefs, Paul Davidson was sending his first track team at Capital University through workouts today. Davidson himself was a Capital U. uniform two years ago and this marks his debut as a cinder coach.

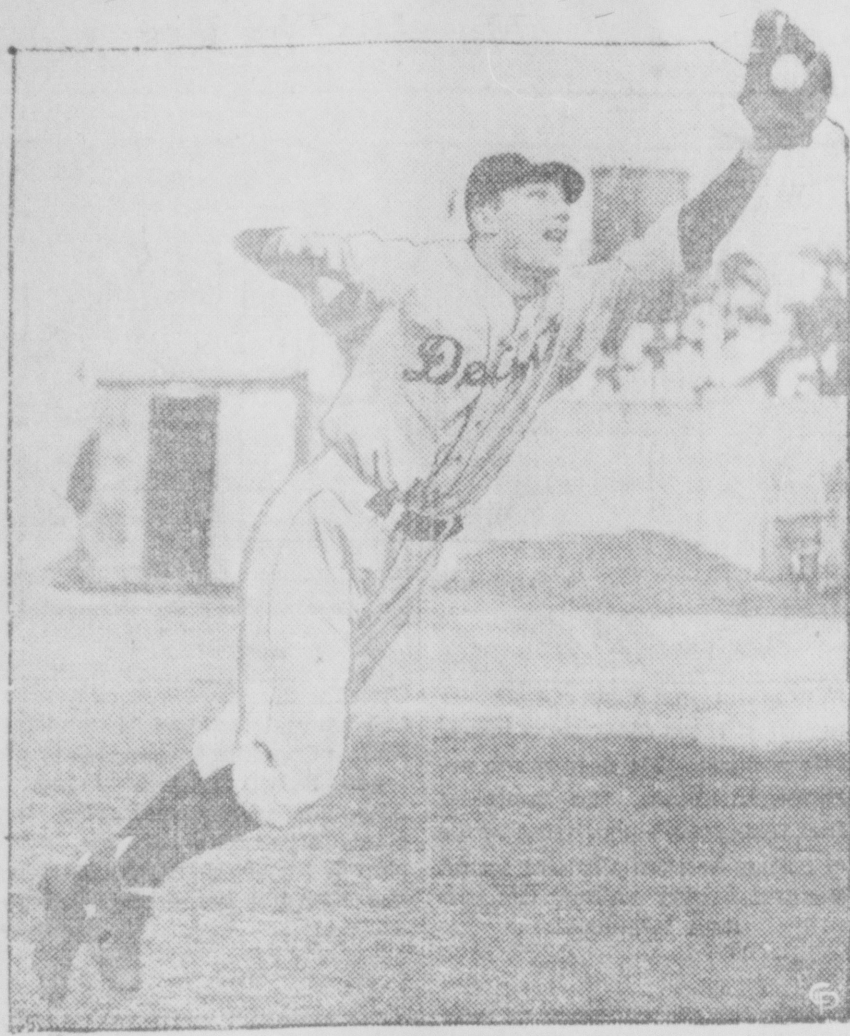

Among the varsity men was Ellsworth Trego of Commercial Point, holder of the present Ohio conference broad jump record. He also is a good high jumper and fast dash man.

Other veterans include Miller William Frederick and Veach of Van Wert was expected to try out for the short runs. Trego, Frederick and Paul Rathke, the latter a Sandusky sophomore, will handle the dash events.

Favorites Survive

One of the really interesting district tournaments of the state is under way at Athens—Favorites came through Wednesday with colors flying.

Scores were:

Chillicothe, 19; Washington C. H. 12.
Pomeroy, 23; Gallipolis, 19.
Portsmouth, 31; Wellston, 10.
Athens, 18; New Lexington, 6.

The Greenfield victory was the most interesting of the tourney—Jimmy Hull and his teammates have created a good season record and were pitted against a team that had lost only one game during the year—Greenfield, it seems will be the team to beat—Upsets, however, are usually the order of things in this southeastern district with Portsmouth usually doing a lot of upsetting.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

FDR's Cabinet Weakens Administration Power By Internal Bickering

WASHINGTON—A newspaperman was drawing comparisons between the Roosevelt official family and that of Herbert Hoover. He was talking to one of the closest members of the Roosevelt Cabinet.

"The chief difference between you," he said, "is that the Hoover Cabinet was like a herd of cattle. When attacked they put their heads together, their heels out, and the enemy had to lick the whole bunch."

"But you fellows in Mr. Roosevelt's Cabinet separate and get dragged down one-by-one."

"I wish," replied the Cabinet member to whom this was addressed, "that you would write that. It would do some of us a lot of good."

Beyond any doubt this is the greatest administrative weakness of Roosevelt's official family. Not only does it lack unity, but it is ridden with internal suspicion, enmity and outright bickering.

This is one of the most immediate problems facing the President today. It is immediate chiefly because of its effect on Congress. As long as party members in Congress see party members in the Cabinet carrying on poorly-concealed warfare, there is a strong tendency to do likewise.

If the dozen or so executives closest to the President do not hang together, they reason, it is difficult to expect unity among 400 and some-odd Democrats on Capitol Hill.

Illustrative of the extent and in some cases the intensity of the feuding, here is a list of the major inter-administration rows:

Foreign Trade

The Hull-Peek Row. This is one of the most embarrassing of all, inasmuch as it effects relations with foreign countries.

Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, believes in a broad policy of lower tariffs and most-favored-nation treatment in negotiating trade treaties. George Peek, Foreign Trade Advisor to the President, is opposed. He believes in quotas and trade restriction unless other countries give concessions to the United States.

And whenever he has an opportunity to make a speech Peek lambastes Hull's policy. Also he negotiates barter agreements with foreign countries, such as the late cotton deal with Germany, causing Mr. Hull to veto them in their final stages.

All this is most confusing to foreign governments. The first duty of their trade delegations, on arriving in Washington, is to find out which is stronger with Roosevelt, Peek or Hull, and whose policy they should follow.

Hoovercrat vs Tammany

Then there is the Roper-Parley Row. About this there has been no great publicity. Yet it burns fiercely behind the scenes.

The Secretary of Commerce and the Postmaster General never did get along well. They have directly opposite backgrounds. Roper is a Democrat from the Solid South. Farley is a Democrat of Tammany training. The divergence increased when Roper campaigned against Al Smith. Farley was then one of Al's fiercest crusaders.

Latest trouble came when Farley attacked the mail contracts of the aviation and shipping lines. Roper is a champion of both interests. He winced painfully when Farley struck.

Oil and Lethargy

Another row which smoulders continually is that between Homer Cummings and Harold Ickes. The former is constantly letting his lawyers thwart the New Deal activities of the Interior Department.

When Ickes' lawyers wanted to bring action against the Eagle-Picher Lead Company for alleged frauds against Indians in the

DAVEY ASKING COUNTIES' AID TO GAIN POINT

State Party Chief Wires Party Chairmen to Oppose Relief

INQUIRY IS VOTED

Neither Davey Nor Hopkins Yield in Fight

COLUMBUS, Mar. 14—Ohio's state relief crisis lumbered on toward a showdown today with politics bobbing to the surface.

Governor Davey and Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins gave no indication of yielding an inch from their opposite stands on who is to bear the responsibility for administering relief, but a new source exerted pressure on Hopkins.

As the Ohio legislature, at Davey's request, prepared to initiate a thorough investigation of the whole relief situation, it was disclosed that telegrams bearing the name of Francis Poulsen, Demo.

REQUEST ACKNOWLEDGED

George G. Adkins, chairman of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee, said today that he had received a request from Governor Davey's office to file a protest against the relief set-up. He has taken no action as yet.

cratic state chairman, have been sent to county chairmen, urging them to wire protests to their congressmen and to Hopkins against Republicans holding "80 per cent" of relief jobs in this state.

"Political Liability"

While frankly admitting that the relief organization is "more a political liability than an asset," Governor Davey repeatedly has stated the war with Hopkins was precipitated solely by a desire to reduce relief costs and administer it more efficiently and humanely.

Senate concurrence in the House resolution authorizing a relief investigation by a committee of five members of each branch was expected to be voted today. Republicans joined Democrats in approving the resolution in the lower house.

"There is no better way to break up this matching of wits between Hopkins and the governor than by adopting this resolution," Rep. L. H. Myers, Lima Republican, advised his colleagues.

An invitation to the federal relief administrator to come to Ohio and answer Davey's charges of

THOMPSON JAILED AFTER THREATS

$25 and Costs Fastened On Man Who Lashed Justice of Peace With Words

Uttering menacing threats to Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland resulted in Roy Thompson, Watt-st., going to the county jail to serve $25 and costs after a hearing in Mayor W. B. Cady's court. Eveland went to Thompson's home Wednesday afternoon to collect a grocery bill but was subjected to a barrage of oaths that resulted in Thompson's arrest by Chief McCrady and Officer Shasteen.

YOUTHS BOUND OVER

Lester Quince and Alfred Smith, 18-year-old youths, were held in the county jail Thursday each under $1,000 bond for breaking and entering the restaurant of 'Durb' Greenlee, E. Franklin-st.

Police say they have confessed the crime which occurred last December.

TARLTON PAIR FREED

Frank Lewis, of Tarlton, was released from the county jail today after serving $25 and costs for receiving stolen property, automobile tires. Allen Floyd, also of Tarlton, gave bond for his costs and was released.

Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith

Zachary Smith Reynolds

Libby Holman Reynolds

More than a score of lawyers representing Libby Holman Reynolds, Broadway torch singer, and Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith, the two wives of Zachary Smith Reynolds, the mysteriously slain tobacco heir, have been waging a fight to the finish over the disposition of the $25,000,000 estate of young Reynolds at a hearing at Winston-Salem, N. C., in a case which has become the most involved litigation in North Carolina's history. The fight centers on the settlement on Anne Cannon Reynolds II, age four, Smith's first child and granddaughter of the millionaire towel manufacturer, and on the infant son, Christopher, that Libby Holman, his second wife, bore him.

The administration of Charles C. Young as probate judge is highly commended in the report of the state examiners, L. P. Sherman and Allen G. Atwell.

The examiners recently completed their inspection here.

"Judge Young and his deputies, Harry Grove and Alma Glick, are capable and conscientiously administering the affairs of this very important office."

"The cash books, dockets, and other records are models of neatness and accuracy."

INFLUENZA FATAL TODAY TO YOUTH

Illness of two weeks with influenza caused the death Thursday of French Joseph McFarland, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton M. Farland, of Green-twp. Ross-co. The family moved to Ross-co. from Decree-twp. a few weeks ago.

Besides his parents the youth is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Earl at home, Mrs. Ralph Hunt, Mrs. Harry Selzer and Mrs. Clyde Bromfield, this city, and Margaret, Marshall Clark, Newton Jr., Russell, Robert and Glenn all at home.

The funeral will be Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Church of Christ at Williamsport with Rev. Dettie officiating. Burial will be in Spring-lawn cemetery by C. E. Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mack and daughter, Regina, Misses Ella and Mattie Crum, Mrs. Oscar Hoffman and Mrs. Leslie Pontius were Circleville persons attending funeral services in Columbus, Wednesday afternoon, for Mrs. John Gill, a former resident here and sister of Mrs. Mack.

Cady's Hopes for High Office Ended With Announcement of Positions

Hopes of Mayor W. B. Cady for a high position in the state conservation department were blasted today when Governor Martin L. Davey announced appointment of Lawrence Woodell, Ravenna school teacher, as conservation commissioner succeeding William H. Reinhardt of Sandusky.

Several other appointments were made to high offices including:

T. D. Pefferle, of Dayton, former president of the Ohio Zoak Walton

B. J. Hill, of Akron, to succeed C. J. McCurrie as chief of the bureau of state lakes and parks.

Mrs. Nora Halter, of Fremont, active in Republican women's circles and president of the Save Outdoors Ohio council, as field representative of the department to organize Ohio club women to the importance of conservation programs.

This, too, is a new job.

Z. B. Gray, Cleveland newspaperman, to replace Fred C. Fletcher of Toledo, as a member of the conservation council.

Woodell was announced as the new commissioner after Davey met with 26 officials of various sportsmen's organizations of the state Wednesday evening. The Ravenna man, a decided darkhorse, was selected from a list of 36 candidates. Woodell has been principal of a grade school at Ravenna and has been president of the Portage-co fish and game protective association for seven years.

Mr. Cady has the support of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee for a conservation department job. There is still a possibility that he will be offered a position in the department.

The commissioner will receive a $5,000-per-year salary.

Estate Case Nearing End

Superior Court Judge Expected to Decide Contest Within Few Days

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., March 14—As the fourth day of the complicated Zachary Smith Reynolds estate settlement hearing began in superior court here today, arguments remained to be heard in the $28,000,000 battle.

The court, presided over by Judge Clayton Moore, was expected to decide today, or tomorrow at the latest, whether the settlement proposed by the brother and sisters of the mysteriously slain youth would be acceptable.

The fight centers between the two wives of Zachary, with Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith, his first wife, laying claim to the entire estate in behalf of her infant daughter, and Libby Holman, Broadway blues singer, his second wife, willing to abide by terms of the family plan in the interest of her son.

A. L. Brooks, attorney for Mrs. Anne L. Cannon, grandmother and co-guardian of little Anne Cannon Reynolds II, was scheduled to resume the arguments today in which Mrs. Cannon attacks the settlement that would give 37½ per cent of the fortune to the Reynolds family to be used in establishing an educational foundation in Zachary's memory.

Mrs. Sarah Kirkendall, aged 79, member of one of Pickaway-co's pioneer families and a former resident of Darbyville, died late Wednesday of complications at her home, 2425 Bryden-rd., Columbus.

She was a daughter of the late Benjamin F. Renick who resided in Pickaway-co his entire life. Mrs. Kirkendall lived in Darbyville until the death in 1896 of her husband, Dr. Theodore Kirkendall, after which she removed to Columbus.

She was the mother of Drs. Ben R. and Edward T. Kirkendall, both prominent Columbus physicians.

Other survivors are: three brothers, Seymour Renick of Mt. Sterling, Frank of Madison-co, near Mt. Sterling, and Job R. of Jackson-twp.; three sisters, Mrs. Amanda Carpenter and Miss Jennie Renick of Mt. Sterling, and Mrs. Ella Allen of Washington C. H., and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Mt. Sterling Presbyterian church with burial in Pleasant cemetery, Mt. Sterling.

3 JUDGES SEND YOUTH TO PRISON

WILMINGTON, March 14—Eighteen-year-old Thomas Jones, who allegedly confessed slaying his father "because I was afraid of him," today faced an indeterminate term in Mansfield Reformatory.

The youth was convicted and sentenced yesterday for manslaughter in connection with the death of his father, William Jones, 40, a tenant farmer, last month.

Three judges heard the youth's case. They deliberated "only a few minutes" before determining the degree of murder and fixing the penalty. During the trial, witnesses testified the boy's father had beaten and abused him.

ACCEPTS NEW JOB

Miss Annette Carothers, E. Union-st., will begin her duties as the new bookkeeper at the Ohio Water Co. office on W. Main-st. the first of April.

She will take the place of Mrs. Martin Dissinger (Willetta Burns) who has resigned.

E. E. Althoff, of Columbus, has become bookkeeper for the W. J. Weaver and Son wholesale house, N. Court-st., replacing Miss Carothers.

Miss Carothers has been employed in the wholesale office for the past eleven years, while Mrs. Dissinger has worked for more than seven years for the water company.

Sale of Beer to Minors Hit

Legal Age Set at 21 Years By House With Senate Yet to Take Action On Measure; County Option Bill Back In Committee

COLUMBUS, March 14—Legislation making it unlawful to sell or give 3.2 beer to a minor, adopted after much wrangling in the lower house, today depended upon action by the Ohio senate.

Both wets and dries claimed some advantages from the Hall-Ashbolt bill as finally approved by the House. Unable to reduce the age of a person lawfully able to buy beer from 21 to 18 years, the wets nevertheless succeeded in shaving down the penalty for violation to a fine of $25 to $300 and not more than six months in jail.

The dries on the other hand found consolation in the house going on record against permitting minors to frequent beer parlors. Under the Hall-Ashbolt bill, they may obtain beer only from a physician or their legal guardian.

Option Bill Hit

A setback was experienced by the Anti-Saloon League's county-wide local option bill sponsored by Dep. Frank Grubbs (D) Good Hope. The house sent it back to the temperance committee with a reprimand because it had been reported out without a recommendation for passage.

Wet leaders predicted the temperance committee would be unable to muster enough favorable votes to report the bill out with such recommendation.

In cities of over 55,000 population the quota of restaurant liquor permits is increased under the Zablotny bill approved by the House, 68 to 38. One is allowed for each 1,500 persons instead of 2,000 as at present. The bill awaits senate concurrence.

PAY INCREASE IS GRANTED TO CITY TEACHERS

Checks Received This Week Find Salaries Boosted $4 to $10

Circleville school teachers were pleased this week when their pay checks, included increases in salary amounting to from $4 to $10 per teacher per month. The increase is simply restoration of a salary cut in effect since 1932. All teachers were affected.

Robert G. Colville, clerk of the school board, disclosed the increase in pay. He said the increase would add about $500 a month to the school expenses.

The total payroll each month is about $5,000, Mr. Colville said.

Circleville, as a result of a strict economy program enforced by the board of education, are in better shape financially than those of many cities of similar size.

'DE LAWD' OF SHOW IS DEAD

Richard B. Harrison, 70, Eminent Negro, Star of Green Pastures, Dies

NEW YORK, March 14—The final "gangway for the Lawd Gawd Jehovah" came for Richard B. Harrison, negro actor, who died in the Fifth avenue hospital today.

The man who played God for more than five years in "The Green Pastures" died from a blood clot.

Harrison was 70 years old and perhaps the most eminent negro of his time.

He was the son of escaped slaves, idolized by his own race, honored by others. He was dignified, gentle, self-contained and filled with a passionate belief in the religious symbolism of his stage role.

He collapsed in his dressing room on March 2 after returning to New York from 43,000 miles on the road and 1,659 unbroken performances as "De Lawd" of "The Green Pastures."

His heart was weak—he had strained it. He faltered as he got up and Charles Wood, his understudy, caught him.

"Hold me up, Charlie," he said. "Hold me up. The world needs this play. I'll be back in a few days."

Harrison didn't want to go to the hospital but they made him. They told him to take a little rest but most of the troupe knew that he had overtaxed himself.

Harrison suffered a sudden relapse this morning and an acute attack of coronary occlusion. He died in twenty minutes.

HUEY BLOCKS RELIEF PLANS

WASHINGTON, March 14—A proposal by Senator Huey P. Long (D) of Louisiana, to earmark $300,000,000 of President Roosevelt's $4,800,000,000 work relief fund for sending 300,000 children of poor parents through college today shared the senatorial spotlight with demands of conservatives for a balanced budget.

Long proposed to take the $300,000,000 from an allocation of $600,000,000 for the CCC. He said young men in CCC camps would prefer going to college. He previously was beaten by a 5 to 75 vote when he proposed spending $1,000,000,000 of the total relief fund on educational purposes.

RIVER TOWNS GIRD TO FIGHT FLOOD WATER

Ohio Expected to Go Over Banks at Cincinnati Late This Week

NEAR FLOOD STAGE

Families Flee Homes in Mississippi Valley

CINCINNATI, March 14—Officials here and in other towns and villages along the Ohio river today were quickly organizing for emergency action as the rain-swollen river continued to edge upward to flood stage.

The river, if it continues rising at the present rate is expected to overflow its banks Saturday. The crest probably will exceed 53 feet, W. C. Deveraux, United States meteorologist here, said today. Flood stage is 52 feet.

While the river was not expected to reach serious flood proportions, preparations were ordered to handle any emergency in Cincinnati. The most serious menace was feared among northern Kentucky towns. Snows have been prepared to assist lowland refugees should the waters become serious.

Nearing 47 Feet

The river here was nearing the 50 feet tomorrow and then go over 47 foot stage today. Deveraux said the waters probably would reach 53 feet Saturday.

FIRST LIBERTY LOAN CALLED

Government to Retire Nearly Two Billions June 15, Says Morgenthau

WASHINGTON, March 14—A call for retirement of $1,933,000,000 in First Liberty bonds for June 15 was issued today by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. About $550,000,000 of these securities bear four and one quarter per cent interest, a small portion four per cent, and the remainder three and one half per cent interest.

Morgenthau said that the exchanges of four and quarter per cent bonds called in the amount of $1,933,000,000 for April 15 was "going well." The last report showed exchanges of over $500,000,000 and since that time several hundred million were believed to have come in, although Morgenthau did not have definite figures.

Bonds bearing two and seven-eighths per cent interest were offered in exchange for the Fourth Liberty. On April 15 it was expected that the remaining outstanding Fourth Liberties now amounting to around $1,325,000,000 would be called for October 15.

CHURCH, COLLEGE LEADERS FIGHT PAROCHIAL AID BILL

DIVISION OF CHURCH AND STATE CITED

Wittenberg, Otterbein Presidents Add Voice to Objection to Measure

COLUMBUS, March 14—Basing their objection on the premise that church and state must forever remain separated, Protestant clergymen of Ohio today appealed to the Ohio legislature to defeat the Davis bill granting $3,000,000 state aid to parochial schools.

"Passage of this measure," Rev. Harold N. Geistweitz, Cincinnati, president of the Ohio Pastors' association, told the senate finance committee, "would set at naught religious prejudice and split asunder harmony developed in separation of church and state."

"Our public schools are adequate for every child of every citizen and if they are not, it is the duty of the state to make them so. If we begin a subsidy of private institutions, what will prevent an uprising of a multitude of them which will demand state aid and spell the doom of the public schools, the very foundation of our government."

Colleges Urge Defeat

Presidents of two sectarian colleges, Wittenberg and Otterbein, which would benefit under a clause of the Davis bill giving $2,000,000 to such institutions not now receiving state aid, argued strongly for defeat of the measure.

"We are here because without our knowledge and against our will we have been dragged into something which we do not approve," Dr. R. E. Tulloss, Wittenberg president, told the committee.

"No matter how great our financial problems, we oppose this unexpected offered gift. Is relief from our financial burdens so much to be desired as to be bought with a sacrifice of a principle on which our national government is founded?"

"As for me, give me independence or give me dissolution."

Lutherans, whose own parochial schools would share in the $3,000,000 state aid along with those of the Catholics, sent battery of speakers to oppose the Davis bill. "Parochial schools are an integral, an argonic part of whatever church maintains them," said Rev. Edward W. Schram, Cleveland. "It is just as logical for the legislature to appropriate state funds for the foreign missions of some church."

"The Lutheran church hopes unto God to keep its sense of logic even in a depression."

While proponents state that the requested state aid would be only temporary to tide them over the economic crisis, this avowal was challenged by Rev. F. W. Loose, Lorain Lutheran pastor, and by Dr. Frank G. Coffin, Cleveland Congregationalist minister.

Have Schools Too

"We have parochial schools as the Catholics do," said Rev. Loose. "And the only reason for their existence is that we want our children to learn the Lutheran religion and no other, and the same is true of the Catholic schools."

"Why should we permit ourselves to be taxed for the support of any religion we do not approve?"

Former State Sen. W. A. Clark, representing the Junior Order of American Mechanics, said the Davis bill violates "the fundamental principle of separation of church and state."

Previously the committee had heard from a number of Catholic priests and laity who contended that if the 175,000 pupils in their schools were turned over to public schools it would cost the state $10,000,000 instead of the $3,000,000 they are asking.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up" again. They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Remember, a substitute, 25¢ at drug stores. © 1935 C. L. Co.

STREAM BILL HEARING SET FOR TUESDAY

Bearce, Testers, Others Oppose Penalties for Pollution of Streams

COLUMBUS, March 14—Persons favoring the Reiners bill proposing stiff penalties for pollution of streams will be given an opportunity to be heard before the House Ways and Means committee, Tuesday, March 19 at 10 a. m. Representative E. R. Hummel of Fairfield, chairman of the committee announced today.

Due to a misunderstanding on the date of the original hearing the only persons appearing at Tuesday night's session of the committee disapproved of the bill. Representative Hummel during the committee hearing said: "I know there are some people in Fairfield who are for the bill and I am anxious that they be given an opportunity to be heard."

Opponents of the bill cited that its passage would work undue hardship on Ohio industry, which, they said, was doing "its share" to help in the elimination of the "waste problem" wherever possible.

E. F. Bearce, Chillicothe, vice president of the Chillicothe Paper Company and former director of the Scioto Sandusky Conservancy district suggested that the pollution problem be handled gradually through educational methods and "persuasion rather than dictation" be used. Howard Testers, general manager of the Mead Paper Corporation, Chillicothe, said passage of the bill would "handicap" Ohio industry.

Carl S. Dixon, assistant secretary of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, representing Alexander Thomson, Jr., Hamilton, state chamber president and president of the Champion Coated Paper Company read Mr. Thomson's paper which said in part: "Only about 20 per cent of the sewage passing through the sewers in cities is industrial waste, the remaining 80 per cent being natural sewage of the city."

Thomson's paper also said "that industrial development of a community should be of more importance" . . . "than the few fish that have lived in the stream if industry had not lotted there and its waste allowed to run into the stream."

J. H. Waring, Columbus, chief engineer of the State Health department, said that the bill would make "police" out of the conservation division and would interfere with the health department functions of the state. Waring added that there are now present statutes which enable property owners damaged by pollution to enter a damage suit and also obtain a health department order against the offender.

Waring reported that "educational measures" and continued "waste disposal refinements" made possible by PWA grants and loans would solve the pollution problem best.

Thirty-four per cent of the students enrolled in the college of agriculture and the school of home economics of the Ohio State University are former 4-H club members. For the central states the percentage is reported as 31.

summaries. Some of the questions which may be answered in this way are:

Are we carrying enough insurance? Is a garden a means of lowering food costs? Do income and rental situations warrant home ownership? Were we extravagant in our cleaning? Has any member an unreasonable share in the clothing costs?

Does the cost of repairs show that it is a mistake to try to use the car another year? Are magazines over-emphasized and books under-stressed? Should we have regular physical and dental examinations?

Further analysis of the records will help in the reduction of costs. A gas or electric bill which has doubled during a certain month over the corresponding month in last year needs investigating. A high gas bill may be reduced by seeing that the oven is used to capacity. Using the electric hand iron for one long period rather than several short periods lowers costs of electricity.

Accounts may reveal carelessness in taking advantage of discounts. For instance, coal is sometimes cheaper if purchased in the spring and cash payments often mean an additional reduction.

The durability of articles may be checked from the accounts. How long does one type of socks or hose wear as compared with another? Did the pair of shoes for the little girl purchased at five dollars wear enough longer than those at three dollars to warrant the extra cost? The advantages of quantity buying and seasonal buying also are evident from the accounts. The homemaker who discovers the amount of soap she uses in a year may buy it by the carton, thus effecting a saving.

Thus the family account book is all-revealing, often showing the way to economies which will make possible luxuries previously thought impossible.

BASEBALL'S "BABE"

AFTER some 20 years in the big leagues, "Babe" Ruth is still at it and "going strong." Sport prophets for the past several years have told of his finish with the close of each season. He is too old, they said, and his legs are too weak to sustain added weight.

Perchance his forty-four years are just a little too much for any man to carry onto the diamond. Maybe he is past his prime when it comes to actual playing. But there is one phase of baseball that "Babe" Ruth's grip still holds firm—the faculty for making money.

There are some "dyes-in-the-wool" Ruth fans who would go to the park if the "Great Bambino" were to do nothing more than sit in the right field bleachers. Perhaps they will continue to do so until Ruth himself goes to the park no more.

Boston's signing of the three-year contract with Ruth as player, assistant manager and vice president of the club will reap a two-fold benefit. Ruth was reputed to have been done when he lost the 1934 season with the Yankees. The opportunity comes as a job for him, and a good paying one at that. The Boston club was "on the rocks" financially and it probably will be a mangle of good fortune affording them at last the opportunity to net some profits for the organization.

Maybe Ruth is done. Maybe he should have quit five or six years ago. But if he had he would have lost over a quarter of a million dollars — to say nothing of the slump in business that the Yanks would have felt.

"Babe" Ruth, the "Great Bambino," the "Sultan of Swat," now has another title to prove, "Master of the Gate." The 1935 season will offer him a chance to prove his worth to a club that has everything to gain.

HOW STUDENTS FEEL

A CROSS-SECTION of opinion on the issues of war and peace has been obtained from American college and university campuses by the Literary Digest — whose editors apparently are not happy unless they are polling somebody about something — and the results are interesting.

Of the 112,607 students polled, 90 percent favored government control of munitions manufacture; 50.5 percent opposed American entrance in the League of Nations; two-thirds expressed belief that America can stay out of the next great war; and 83 percent said they would willingly defend the country in case of invasion.

It would be interesting to know how closely this reflects the sentiment of the country as a whole. Offhand, one might suggest that it is not very far from it.

It's a fair bet that the average citizen distrusts the munition makers and the league, feels that his country ought to keep out of the next war, and is ready to do his bit if anyone else starts anything.

Carter Glass insists that one is only as old as he thinks. His colleague, Huey, is still thinking in the lollypop age.

Some of our politicians have the instincts of a mocking bird, which can change its tune eighty-seven times in seven minutes.

New York City, which characteristically takes a large view of things, would like the Federal government to help her out to the extent of a billion.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Floyd Happeny, 24, was instantly killed when a 10-foot ditch, being dug for the N. Pickaway sanitary sewer, caved in. Charles Hutchinson, 40, miraculously escaped injury, although he was almost completely buried in the ditch.

More than 100 sportsmen and their friends attended the annual meeting and banquet of the Pickaway Farmers' and Sportsmen's league at the Elks club. Senator J. P. Atwood was the principal speaker. William Reed was president of the organization.

Circleville Athletic Club basketball team was eliminated from the Ohio State tournament losing to Springfield 40-25. The C. A. C. lineup included Steele, VandenBerg, Parks, Merriman, Gordon and Robinson.

15 YEARS AGO

Frank Rogers and Fred Fitzpatrick took the examination before the Circleville municipal civil service commission for patrolman. There were no applicants for the fire department.

Layton Devault, 17-year-old Adelphi boy, confessed to Ross county officials to killing his father. The killing took place following a series of quarrels, the young man striking his father several times with a hatchet.

Seven Circleville high school basketball players, all seniors, made their final appearance on the hardwood court in a game against Greenfield. They were: Burgett, Mack, Short and Williams as regulars, and Polin, Wiggins and Stagner as relief men.

A Thought for Today

"The merciful man doeth good to his own soul: but he that is cruel troubleth his own flesh."
—Proverbs 11:17.

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

READ THIS FIRST:
Consuelo, a beautiful gypsy girl who longs to dance with all the world at her feet, is loved by the Duke, a deaf mute, and Marcia, who despises her mother, Ansel, but is fond of her father, Girtza. Marcia brings Consuelo to a new life, and she agrees to marry him. Just as Girtza notices Consuelo's ruin, which she tells him she has stolen, the sheriff appears. He proceeds to haul the gypsies into court, but Consuelo is no longer within the ring.
(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 8
"WELL, GEORGE, you might have known that she wouldn't wear the ring into court. Why didn't you take it away from her when you saw it?" the judge asked.
The sheriff's face turned red.
"I couldn't," he stammered, the painful admission. "Ask Bert and Fred, they was with me. They seen her take it." He cleared his throat. "But she's got it on her some place. She ain't had a chance to take it away. I'd have seen her. Gosh, judge, it was a diamond as big as my thumb nail and a brand new shiny one. She's got it on her."
"All right, then, search the girl."
The sheriff stepped back. "Yes, yes." He shook his head vigorously. "Not me, judge, not me!"
The judge turned to the clerk.
"Get my wife and Mrs. Mortimer and tell them to come here immediately." He turned to the girl.
"What's your name?"
"Consuelo."
"You danced yesterday, didn't you?"
She nodded.
"This man says you have a ring, a large diamond ring. In a few minutes there will be two ladies here to search you and if you want to save yourself some embarrassment, you can give me that ring now. I dare say that even a gypsy wouldn't throw away the evidence if that evidence happens to be a valuable ring, so you might as well give it to me."
Consuelo stared at him, her look sultry.
"Well, if you won't, we have ways and means to make you, you know. Did you steal the ring from this town? Come, now, answer my questions. I warn you, you had better give me the ring. If you will, I promise not to be too hard with you."
There was no answer from the girl, just a steady, defiant look on her face.
At this point the crowd made way for the clerk and two women who followed close behind him.
"Good morning, ladies. George, here, says this girl has a large diamond ring. I'd thank you if you'd take her into the jury chamber and get it."
Mrs. Mortimer, a determined country woman, marched through the gates and up to the jury door. But the judge's wife was not so determined. In fact, she was not determined at all. She made as if to protest, but the judge motioned her on, so, gathering her skirts up in her dainty fingers, she made a wide circle around the gypsies and gained the jury door.
"Go with them, young lady," the judge ordered.
Feet apart, hands on hips, Consuelo did not move.
Uneasiness appeared on the judge's face. Then to his astonishment the gypsy girl laughed. With one quick movement she stepped up and made a bow of a white man's judge. "I will do as you say, but you will wish that you had let the Gypsy Consuelo alone before I am through. I spit on your authority and curse you for a white son of a dog!" She spoke in Roman.

"Oh, what's that you say?" The judge leaned forward.

"Anything you wish, gorgio," she said in English. She stood erect, eyes sparkling. Again her laugh rang through the room and turning she walked toward the open door where the two women awaited her. She paused a minute and glanced back at Girtza.

"You need not worry over this bad one," Roman words to him. "I will give these pieces how sharp are a gypsy girl's finger nails and how strong her arms!"

As she disappeared through the door, the sheriff turned the key in the lock. He'd kept the gypsy in there until the women got the ring, and if they were a bit rough with her it would serve the scamp right. He'd not unlock the door for any hollering. Nor did he—until—

A quarter of an hour or so later when Marcia returned with the horses he was met with a babble of excited voices. His eyes took in the propped axle. The maze of voices settled to coherence.

Girtza, Consuelo, the sheriff, A diamond ring. The gorgio jail. The sheriff and his men with guns. Marching off to town. Prisoners. What was to be done? The gorgio doors had gone too far this time. They'd go in and cut the throats of all of them! Dirty curs! Marcia must do something. Wasn't Girtza Consuelo's sweetheart, the man Girtza had promised her to?

Marcia smiled at the sudden groined words.

"It's all right," he told them. "I will go in and fix it. Get everything packed and on the wagon and the horses hitched and we move as soon as we get back with the whole lot!"

"But how are you going to do it?" the amazed demand.

"Never you mind, my comrades. I will do it. Am I not your leader? Can the gypsy Marcia fail?"

"What do you know about that ring?" Anica asked him.

"What I know about that ring is my business," he laughed in her face and hustled down the trail.

"So Consuelo said she had stolen it, eh? Ah, but she was the smart one! A good wife she'd make him. Wife, yes. No longer could she say no. His heart beat faster. He increased his pace.

"He had no sooner entered the court room than he was seized upon by rough hands.

"Here's another gypsy! Arrest him!"

Marcia shook himself free and pushed his way to the front.

"There is no reason for the arrest of these, my people. I bought the ring!" he shouted above the din of confusion.

The judge was standing, his face red and angry. His wife was sitting down front, her dress torn and dirty, hands shaking, low choking sobs coming from behind her hands. Mrs. Mortimer was nowhere to be seen. Consuelo was standing near Girtza, eyes smoldering with anger.

The sheriff, puffing and perspiring, glared Marcia and got him inside the gates. All eyes were turned on them.

"I bought the ring!" Marcia shouted, trying to understand the scene around him.

"The stealing of the ring is unimportant compared with what this girl has done!" the judge bellowed down at him. "The hell! At this time, these two defenseless women! It's an outrage! George, go in and see if Mrs. Mortimer's nose has stopped bleeding and if it has, get her out here to swear out a complaint of assault and battery against this gypsy scoundrel!" He sat down and mopped his face with his handkerchief. "I never in my life heard of such behavior! So, to his wife, 'Will you stop sniffing?' I can't think with you carrying on like that. Now, what's this about the ring? He asked, attempting to resume his judicial equilibrium.

"I bought it," Marcia repeated for the third time.

"You bought it, eh? Well, gypsy, prove it and make it quick. I haven't much time to waste on a bunch of lying gypsies. If I had a jail big enough I'd run the whole pack of you in!"

"Mrs. Mortimer went home," George interrupted. "She says she won't swear out any complaint. She says to tell you she'll sit even with you for getting her blamed up like this. She says to tell you the gypsy is a devil and if you don't quit the bunch of 'em out of town quick she'll turn you to stone!"

"That's enough, George! Now, gypsy, prove what you say!"

Heard & Seen

BY KAY JAY

SPRING BEGINS

It's peculiar what a learned person is able to see when looking through one of those powerful telescopes. There's Dr. Bobrovnikoff, noted astronomer down at Ohio Wesleyan university, who is able to gaze off into space and tell us what is going to happen, and when. You and I might look through the blooming thing for a week and not see anything but about a million stars, but those professional star-gazers are able to give us the low down. For instance, the "Prof" is able to tell us the exact time spring begins. He says:

"This year, official spring begins on March 21, 18 minutes after 5 o'clock a. m. (E. S. T.)."

And we can't argue with him about it because we can't talk his language.

The astronomer states it is very simple to predict the exact beginning of the spring season. "There are two imaginary lines, one called equator and ecliptic, which govern the astronomical change of season. When the sun, which always travels along the ecliptic line, reaches the first intersection the vernal equinox occurs; when it gets to the second intersection, the summer equinox (Autumn) is noted."

And at 5:18 a. m., March 21, you may say without fear of official contradiction that "spring has come."

Very simple, isn't it—when you know how it's done.

WRITES FROM TEXAS

Ben E. Ludwig, well known to many residents of Circleville and Pickaway Co., writes an interesting letter from Marfa, Texas, where he is engaged in road building.

ing. His many friends in this section will be glad to know something about the country of which Ben is now a resident, and here-with is reproduced extracts from his letter:

"I left Dallas, Texas, December 21 and arrived in Marfa on Christmas day, after 15 hours of day-time driving, just about 1800 miles southwest of Circleville on Route 67. I will be here until April 1st, building eight miles of road east. It may be interesting to hear about this part of Texas. Marfa is the county seat of Presidio Co., 63 miles north of the Rio Grande, in the Davis mountains, 4694 feet above sea level and surrounded by mountains in all directions. The country 10 to 15 miles around is ranch land and level. They raise cattle and sheep. The mountains are very interesting and I have taken several pictures.

"There is lots of game here. Deer, antelope, wild turkey, quail and rabbits may be killed in season. There are lions, bears, bobcats, coyotes and snakes. Vegetables are raised on irrigated land in the Rio Grande valley, 63 miles south.

"The population of Marfa is 2000 Mexicans and 1000 Americans. About half the Mexicans have their naturalization papers and are American citizens.

"We have wide, paved streets and many adobe houses, good water from wells 100 feet deep. The climate is very nice. We are all well. I will be located in Dallas soon. Regards to all."

ATONEMENT

When a storm comes up at night
And the wind is crying,
When the trees are moaning like
masts on laboring ships,
I wake in fear and put out my hand to find you
With your name on my lips.

No pain that the heart can hold is like to this one—
To call, forgetting, into aching space,
To reach out confident hands and find beside you
Only an empty place.

This should atone for the hours
when I forget you,
Take then my offering, clean and

An agony brighter than years of dull remembrance.

I lay it at your feet.

Blood Pressure Readings Often Cause False Alarms

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT DOES NOT seem to me that physicians are using their blood pressure apparatus as much as they used to. At least, it is true to say that a knowledge of the blood pressure is not as important in making a decision in as many cases as it used to be.

Part of this is due to the fact that blood pressure readings gave the patient a false idea of the state of his health or his progress.

I heard an eminent student of the diseases associated with high blood pressure say that he wished people would quit taking the blood pressure for a while, and see whether it wouldn't brighten up the world. This referred to his experience that a patient will hear one day that his blood pressure is down 10 points from the week before and will think he is cured and begin to indulge in excesses. Then the next week he will find it is up 10 points and this will throw him into unnecessary melancholy.

What the patient finds it hard to realize is that the blood pressure fluctuates within very wide limits in normal people and even more so when it is in any way disordered. Therefore, small variations over a short period of time do not mean very much either for good or bad. It is for this reason that my friend believed that blood pressure readings, if taken, should not be disclosed to the patient. Of course, he did not mean that they were not valuable pieces of information to the physician.

It must be remembered that blood pressure examinations have been made only for a comparatively short period of time. It is less than 30 years ago that life insurance companies began to require blood pressure readings on all applicants. And since they were supposed to be used to determine the prospects of long life, we have not yet had time to gather the information that we need.

If we wanted to know the significance of different blood pressures in men aged 25 as regards their longevity, it is plain that if a thousand such examinations were made on a thousand men 30 years ago, most of them still would be alive. So our observation is not completed. And really we won't know all about blood pressure until we have the records of a thousand mothers and fathers, and of their children from birth to death. So it won't be until about A. D. 2000 that anyone will be able to be very dogmatic about the meaning of blood pressure.

It is certainly true that those who have made the most elaborate study of the subject are the least likely to say that all the problems concerning blood pressure are settled. The opinions that they hold on it, as the eminent student I have referred to said, should be subject to radical revision at any time.

CHARACTERS IN "BATTLE OF THE CENTURY"

LIFE STORY TOLD IN A SKETCH STRIP

No. 2—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin

Charles E. Coughlin was born at Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 25, 1891 of American Irish parents. After graduating from the University of Toronto he decided to enter the church, finishing his novitiate with a teaching position at St. Basil's college, Waco, Tex.

In 1916 Father Coughlin returned to Ontario to teach at Assumption college and began to preach at a small church on U. S. side. Now formally attached to the Detroit diocese, he was instructed to start a new parish at Royal Oak, Mich., in 1926.

Although 17 persons attended Father Coughlin's first service, thousands now clamor for admission to the Church of the Little Flower. He has been broadcasting his services almost regularly since 1926 and now his congregation numbers in the millions.

The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin

In preparation for his radio talks the priest often disappears to a seclusion. He does much research to obtain the material that forms the background of his crusades, and usually sits up all night Saturday writing his sermon broadcast.

gifted with a direct sense of humor and unusual oratorical ability, Father Coughlin is completely at ease before the microphone. Although widely criticized for some dignitaries of his own church for his radio tirades, Father Coughlin has a huge following.

He has been a persistent critic of American monetary policy. But when attacked recently by General Johnson as a foe of President Roosevelt's policies, the radio priest declared for Roosevelt. He belongs to the radio the personality attacks of debates of the past.

gross waste and inefficiency in the administration of relief is expected to be issued by the legislative committee before it finishes its task.

The governor himself said he would be in favor of bringing Hopkins to Columbus, but thought it the duty of the investigating group to issue the invitation.

Await Contracts
Meanwhile, the possible effect of the abrupt break between the governor and the national administration might have upon contemplated P. W. A. projects in Ohio began to cause anxiety among contractors who hope to get the jobs.

They doubted that in view of developments of the last two weeks on the relief situation, the federal government would be in a mood to favor Ohio in approval of P. W. A. projects, which they pointed out could do much toward relieving unemployment.

SENATE TO VOTE ON BURK TODAY

COLUMBUS, March 14—The senate is expected to act today on Governor Davey's appointment of Clarence H. Burk, of New London, as director of the liquor control department. State Auditor Joe Tracy has agreed to pay Burk his salary pending confirmation. The job pays $8,500.

PLAN CONVENTION TO SELECT MAYOR

COLUMBUS, March 14—Republicans of this city are planning to select their candidate for mayor under the old-time convention system. The central committee by unanimous vote has decided upon that plan.

MORRO CASTLE MAY BE 'PUT ON BLOCK'

ASBURY PARK, N. J., March 14—The once palatial Ward line Morro Castle, a prisoner in the sands off here since the morning of September 8 last when it became a blazing inferno in which more than 130 lives were lost, has been re-floated.

She was pulled loose shortly before 2 a. m. today by two sturdy tugs which had been trying to salvage her for more than four months.

All day yesterday preparations were made to pull the huge liner free from its last bit of sand.

The two tugs towed the liner to New York, where she will be anchored in Gravesend bay. She will be examined by navy and marine officials and in all likelihood will be offered for sale.

'Mechanical Brain', Best Yet, Developed By Senior at Miami

OXFORD, March 14—A "mechanical brain" built by a Miami University senior today was hailed by Professor E. F. Patten, head of the psychology department here, as "the most complete yet made."

Professor Patten explained that while the machine does not illustrate mechanically the working of the brain it does duplicate the results the brain achieves.

Douglas G. Elliston, a senior at Miami U. constructed the unique device. He declared it illustrated conditioning through trial and error. Through three electro-magnets and an iron pendulum, the machine can make three choices when it is instructed to perform.

ADD 12 CRUISERS

COLUMBUS, March 14—Addition of 12 new cruisers to be used in "clamping down" on speeders and red light crashers is planned by the city safety department. They will replace worn out cars now on duty.

RIVER TOWNS

Ohio and Mississippi valleys today as flood waters swept over banks and levees into many towns and villages.

National guardsmen and river forces were helping move the families to safety. The flood, it is reported, is unequalled since the Mississippi tore through thousands of acres in 1927.

MOSCOW, March 14—Planes and dog teams combed the frozen swamps along the banks of the Barents sea today for a Soviet flier and hospital patient lost when his plane was forced down near Khabarovsk.

The pilot flew several hundred miles across the Arctic from its post on Vaigatch island to an isolated settlement, where he picked up the colony's radio operator, in need of immediate hospital treatment. The plane was forced down en route to Khabarovsk.

Taking No Chances
Among the Yururo Indians of Venezuela, a man cannot speak to his mother-in-law. In camp they have to sit facing opposite each other.

WILLIAMS NEW BAND DIRECTOR

COLUMBUS, March 14—Bert E. Williams, Groveport, has been named director of the 166th infantry O. N. G. band by Col. Robert Hantich. He succeeds Frank Carbone, who died last week. Williams is a WBS staff conductor and organist for the Broad-st Presbyterian church.

HEAD "BIRD MAN" IN NARROW ESCAPE

NEW LONDON, March 14—A narrow escape by the chief of the rations bird-men, when his plane made a forced landing on a muddy field near here last night, was disclosed today.

Major General Benjamin D. Louliss, commander-in-chief of the United States air corps, brought his plane to a safe landing when ice collected on the wings, according to Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Ward, on whose property the landing was made.

A broken propeller was the only damage, Ward said.

Washington Merry-go-round

Ozan, the Justice Department, consented to drop the case. When Ickes' New Deal for Puerto Rico wants action against the big sugar companies, he runs up against the inactivity of Cummings' attorney general for Puerto Rico, whom Ickes' lawyers want to push prosecution of hot oil cases through District Attorneys to direct action. Cummings makes them run the gauntlet of his red tape.

A similar row exists between the Departments of Agriculture and Justice because of the latter's lethargy in handling its cases.

Grateful Farley

Another row has been set between Ickes and Farley. This started when Farley put his Man Friday, pudgy Emil Hurja, in the Interior Department to load it with deserving Democrats. Mr. Ickes objected unless the Democrats also qualified to office. Finally he ousted Hurja.

Recently this feud has shown at least outward signs of a truce. The Postmaster General is reported grateful that his Cabinet colleague did not turn up any damaging evidence in response to the Huey Long resolution.

There are various other feuds and flare-ups. One is the undercover sabotage which the Army inflicts upon parts of the President's program.

When the World Court was being debated in the Senate, one Army colonel got the radio address of Senator Gibson of Vermont, then on the high seas, to radio him to send in his vote against the Court. Roosevelt, his Commander-in-Chief, had sent a special message to Congress urging ratification.

Another undercover feud—although it never breaks forth in harsh words—is that between "Assistant President" Richberg and Miss Frances Perkins. The Secretary of Labor resents the fact that Richberg handles labor disputes which rightfully fall under her department.

Some attribute this constant feuding to the fact that Roosevelt's Cabinet was picked to include representatives of the heterogeneous protest vote which elected him. It includes both political parties, even different factions within those parties.

Whether or not this is the cause, it is universally agreed that not since the internal troubles of the Harding Administration has inter-Cabinet bickering been so pronounced.
